

HAS PLACE OF HONOR—The Silver Cross, symbol of sacrifice, has a place of honor in the newly-opened Halifax Memorial Library. A giant replica of the cross which is presented by the government to mothers and wives of men and women who died in war, is shown hanging over an indoor garden on the first floor landing of the library. (Staff photo by Crosby.)